AMERICAN TROOPS ARE NOW IN THE TRENCHES FIGHTING THE HUNS

BOTH INFANTRY AND ARTILLERY TAKE PART IN ACTUAL ENGAGEMENT.

SECTOR A QUIET ONE

Marched in Whistling—First Shot Was Fired by a Red-headed Gunner.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

With the American army in France, Oct. 27—Following is the first official statement issued from American headquarters.

In continuation of their training as nucleus for instruction later, contingent of some battalions of our first contingents in association with yet

other French battalions are in the first line of a quiet sector on the front. They are supported by some batteries of our artillery in association with veteran French batteries. The sector remains normal;

our men have adopted themselves to actual trench conditions in the most satisfactory manner.

Marched in Front Trenches.

American troops are in the first line trenches on the French front. They first fired the first shot of the war

at six o'clock in the morning of a recent day at a German working party.

There has been intermittent artillery

fighting since.

The helmeted infantry marched in,

without the knowledge of the enemy,

on the same night through rain and mud.

The French soldiers in the trenches welcomed them enthu-

siasmically.

Enemy Is Near.

The nearest enemy trench is several hundred yards away. The sector is one of the quietest on the front. It has not been taken over, being under the control and direction of the French.

The Americans have shelled German positions and troops. The one sent shell for shell. The first casualty will be sent President Wilson.

Goes to Wilson.

The empty case of the first shell

fired will be sent to President Wilson,

it is now in the possession of General

Sibert. The shot was fired by a red-haired gunner as his comrades in the ranks and the enabled officers cheered. Later a luncheon in the field was attended by the American and French artillery in celebration of the first American contact with the enemy.

The gun used in firing the first shot was one of the French 75s.

The second day the French shelled a German position which was located by sound. The enemy replied vigorously, projectiles falling close to the Americans who joined in the duel.

Will Be Relieved.

All the troops will be relieved after a certain period by other troops, thus the American forces will be getting the benefit of actual war conditions.

Standing in a little, almost dry and shell-wrecked village, situated within humble surroundings a few kilometers from the trenches the Associated Press correspondent watched the troops marching up in a driving rain

over roads covered with sticky mud,

the artillery had been firing all day,

and as a result the impression was given that there was considerably more activity on this front than there had been for some time.

Married.

It was soon after Julls in the firing

and in the dark the first machine gun hailed by Missouri mules, the drivers swathed in silickers and with helmets

over their eyes, came up on the road beside a dark canal. There was a long line of these and then came some a battery rolling kitchens giving a salvo order of warm food.

All passed in silence. The last gun carriage had sprawled on the form of a soldier who had been taken ill

and who was being held on by two of his walking comrades.

Through another street paved with cobblestones and its sides lined with rain skeletons of shell-wrecked houses came the sound of the tread of men hob-nailed boots and in the darkness the grim forms of men could be seen marching.

Whistle As They March.

The cautious dash of an electric train as they were American train, backs on their backs, rifles

slung on their shoulders, rain glistening on their coats and around their legs, which were moving with machine-like precision.

The Americans swung down the street apparently as proud as though on dress parade, notwithstanding the darkness miles from the billet

where they had been since coming by train and railway from the instruction camp. As the ranks passed every now and then a soldier could be heard whistling softly to himself

as his nearby comrade listened silently

to the sentimental and popular pieces.

Finally from the rear came the strains

ARMORED LIKE TANKS, ITALIANS GO FORTH TO BATTLE

The steel armor that has been found so useful in protecting the huge tanks from enemy fire has been put to another use on the front where the Italians are steadily beating back the Austrians. Protected by armor plate, these Italian soldiers, veritable "human tanks," are advancing through a fusillade from the Aus-

ITALIANS MAINTAIN THEIR POSITIONS ON THE CARSO FRONT—AUSTRIAN PRESS THROUGH THE ALPS.

With the French army in France, Oct. 27—However great may be the praise bestowed on the French for the brilliancy of their victory over the Germans north of the Aisne this week, it is too small an appreciation of their herculean efforts in the face of one of the most difficult tasks of the war. This is the opinion not only of their immediate chief, but of all who have seen them at work. Fronting them were the finest divisions of the German crown prince's army, occupying strongly fortified positions and with the keenest appreciation of their value.

Notwithstanding this the French not only obtained every objective set for them, but exceeded the hopes of the most sanguine and advanced beyond the appointed places. More than eleven thousand prisoners already have been conquered and sent to rear. Others are still holding in large numbers and are still fighting in subterranean shelters, where their fate can only be

The French line now runs along the southern side of the Aisne-Oise canal without a break from westward of the Aussois to Pargne-Flain, while the city of Reuil has been completely dominated. The correspondent today watched the French infantry who, after four days of uninterrupted fighting, were busily employed digging themselves in along the new front.

The extraordinary exertion had not extinguished their good humor and willingness, notwithstanding privation and suffering from weather conditions, from icy cold rain to snow. They worked with picks and shovels energetically as they had done with rifles during the furious battle.

The German artillery, which showed activity last evening, was quieter today because the French battery had mastered it. The French superiority in its arms demonstrated by the production of shell and smoke bombs, however, was apparent among the French wounded. On this occasion only three were wounded by shell fire, to one by the bullet as compared with a ratio of nineteen to one in the battle around Verdun.

The French guns now are able to enfilade the German positions in three directions, namely, toward Grandvilliers, northward to Aisne, Chateauneuf, along the valley to Laon and to the Ailette valley, menacing the German line on the Chemin-des-Dames ridge. The canal on the border of which the French advance rested, is dry, but forms a mutual line of defense. The bridge and locks had been destroyed during previous artillery fighting.

The Germans last night made a strenuous effort to establish artillery in the plateau, but were greatly discomfited by the French bombardment, which quickly silenced their fire. The crown prince also hurried infantry to help his disengaged Prussian and other divisions which had been badly mowed.

Prisoners taken from the British guard regiments led off to the rear, all the officers cleared out and left them without a commander to continue fighting. Seven German divisions altogether were engaged in the opening of the battle, and when the German commanders saw, after the German commanders saw, utter defeat staring them in the face, they ordered up helter skelter other divisions from long distances. One of these was received from Germany and another from France, and the battle was fought on the battlefield where the men have their local residence. After the battle, he leads it in a private envelope bearing his name, his home address, and the military or naval unit, to which he is attached. The envelope is then deposited in the ballot box in the field or on shipboard. After the polls are closed, the ballot will be sent to Secretary Hugo's office, where they will be registered and sent to the election boards in the respective home districts of the voters. On a designated day the votes will be counted by the local boards. The results are to be reported to the secretary of state by Dec. 29. No result received after that date will be considered as the final outcome of the voting must be determined definitely before Jan. 1, when virtually all the successful candidates assume office.

Two hundred and seventy thousand ballots, or twice as many as the number of voters in military or naval service, have been prepared and are being shipped to all places where New York's soldiers and sailors are in service. These ballots do not contain the names of the state officers to be voted for, but also the county and municipal candidates, and the suffrage amendment.

GERMAN REPORT.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—General Charles of Austria-Hungary commanding the attacking Austria-German army which the statement says is pressing toward the Italian plain through the Julian Alps.

On the Carso front the Italians are maintaining their positions.

Rome, Oct. 27.—An official statement made tonight that the struggle on the Isonzo front is more than bitter and that its outcome is undecided. The situation created by the power of the enemy is "certainly grave."

England-Anxious.

London, Oct. 27.—The Austro-German blow on the Isonzo is featured by the morning newspapers which comment rather anxiously. News dispatches said that Field Marshal Von Mackensen is in command of enemy force. A British correspondent on the Italian front in a telegram under Wednesday date says: "There is going to be one of the terrible crises when each side stakes all, when thousands of men are strained to the limit of action for a decisive victory. The efforts will reach beyond the battle field and modify the whole course of the war. Italy is about to meet single-handed almost the entire Austrian army and to bear alone the burden she hitherto shared with the Russian. It is known that at least ten German divisions are waiting behind the enemy front and that the number of new

FINAL LOAN DRIVE IS ON THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY TODAY

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Washington, Oct. 27.—"Over the top" with $5,000,000,000 to crush the kaiser. This was the rallying cry that rang throughout the land today as the army of Liberty loan campaign began their final drive to achieve the maximum goal.

On the basis of reports early today treasury officials were optimistic that the high mark would be attained, and possibly passed by a good margin before midnight tonight. At that hour the closing of the subscription books will end the most remarkable money campaign in American history. From President Wilson down officials were in accord that the record of this drive, when tabulated, will be another unanswered argument against the enemies of liberty. Treasury officials at the beginning of the day saw in reports from practically all the federal reserve districts indications that the total subscription would reach approximately $4,000,000,000. They are to their right estimate, $3,633,000,000—conservative figures borne out by private advices of subscriptions now in transit to

JANESVILLE BOYS AWARDED STRIPES AT CAMP GRANT

Co. C, 381st Machine Gun Battalion, Camp Grant, Oct. 27.

There are many glad hearts in the 331st Machine Gun Battalion of today as the men after five weeks of strict training and hard and long study have been awarded the non-commissioned officers' places. The test who has been a supreme and the man who has won will have the heartiest congratulations of the entire company, and are known by all to be efficient and without a doubt will prove that they are real soldiers.

Most of the officers appointed had little or no military training before coming to Camp Grant, but by hard study and strict application to their work they have proven beyond a doubt that they are the men best fitted for their respective places and on assuming their positions know that they have the sincere backing of every man in their company.

Howard L. Smith, for three years connected with the Jones' grocery store of Janesville, has been selected first sergeant and one that knows Smith will understand why he has won the coveted position. On coming to Camp Grant Howard Smith came just as green, if not greener, than most of the men, but on arriving here he has worked night and day to accomplish his purpose and has finally been awarded the place.

John Hendrikson, lad of the Hough Shade Corporation, the Bower City, and tenor of the Lakota club quartet, has received his appointment as mess sergeant, and although John had no experience of this kind before entering the service of Uncle Sam, he has proven by his steady application to his work that he is well fitted for this place.

Raymond Gallagher, one of the smallest men in the company, has been named as supply sergeant, and if one could have watched the little man on the part four weeks, they would well know why he received his appointment.

Raymond Bussewitz, a veterinary surgeon from Beloit, has been named for stable sergeant and with his knowledge of horses and mules he will make a first class man.

Harold Stickney, the long-lean lad from the seat of Rock county, has been named range finder, with the title of sergeant. The other sergeants appointed who will act as duty sergeants are as follows: William McIntosh of Edgerton; Donald Brown of Beloit; J. D. Cunningham, the congenial ticket seller from the C. M. & St. P. depot at Janesville; Leon Schleifer of Janesville; Paul Scelford of the Bower City; Thomas Crowley in Frank Myrue, Roy May, Crowley and Perry Gifford, all of Janesville.

After the sergeants came the appointments of corporals and the fights for these positions have been continuing since the first day in camp and the following men after five weeks of study and drudgery have been selected:

Cornelius Cunningham of Beloit, has been named as company clerk; Paul Kyale of Oxfordville has been named as signal corporal, and the following are duty corporals: Ray Shull, Irving Binkley, Bert Burns, Herold Burgrum, Emanuel Diamonte, Homer Bimert, Charles Beck, Frank Koebler, David Stanton, John F. Daley.

At battalion headquarters, Arthur Karberg of Janesville, has been appointed as sergeant major, and one who is well acquainted with him will realize that it was his clever business ability and faithful work which he has always had the reputation of doing that has won him this honor.

A. C. Erickson has been named first cook, Otto Kurnan, lad of the Newell's wagon on North Academy street in Janesville, has been appointed second cook, and James Collins has been appointed thrd cook. James Berg is cooking at the officers' mess and will continue to do so.

Edward Brooks, Galilee Vannie, and Harry McCullum have been named as mechanics; Charles Roppo and Otto Clark will be the trumpeters, and John Everson and Harry Merrifield will do the bugling.

As a result of the recent rains our camp is, to say the least, a damp place. The ground bears a striking resemblance to a well mixed composition of soft soap and glue, and due to the level of ground the water drains very slowly. The boys are all optimistic, and we all agree with a greater or smaller degree of heartiness with Sergeant McIntosh of Edgerton, who says: "This beats all the pieces." It is strongly suggested that the sergeant is a victim of hay fever.

The storms themselves are worthy of mention. Inasmuch as the heavy rains fell during Tuesday and Wednesday night, the men did not suffer, but were able to stay in the light, warm barrack. Lieutenant Humason reported the rains as being among the heaviest he had ever seen, and our boys who stood guard during all night to make the same statement only in a more forceful language. The torrents were on both evenings accompanied by strong wind and an electrical display.

Nicely arranged wood-piles were torn down and scattered by the wind, which blew in irregular, fitful gusts, but there was no serious damage reported throughout the camp, with the exception of a few stalled automobiles.

Everyone is smiling today despite the cloudy sky and gloomy, dismal day. And why not? Wednesday the men were paid and on Friday they received the news of their arms, and since then, one might say that the uniforms given the men are of the very highest quality, and if a civilian were to purchase a suit of the same material, he would find that it would cost a great deal more than the ordinary civilian clothes he has been buying. Another reason why some of the men are so happy is due to the fact that owing to the wet condition of the drill field, it has been impossible to drill, and not many hours has a man been able to become a soldier. He will always welcome a few days' respite from drill.

We regret to report that at the present writing Corporal Wilson's supply of jam is running very low and considerable fear is entertained as to how short will exist until his larder has been replenished?

A curious private upon noticing Sergeant Mawhinney's dejected face on Wednesday night, observed the reason for the sergeant's pessimism was that he received only seven letters in the morning mail. The staff extends sympathies.

Company C has now subscribed $14,000 in Liberty bonds and more are coming in every day. The men are also watching, not only the other regiments of this camp, but have eager eyes on what Company M of the 128th Infantry from Janesville is doing, and at the present time the boys of Camp Grant are leading Co. M by a very safe margin.

Sergeant David J. Cunningham of Janesville, finds only one thing necessary to make his contentment complete, and that is to make Camp Grant co-educational.

At the present writing the company jazz band is holding a rehearsal in the gym room and it is a proven contention that the newspaper scribes are always the victims.

Company spirit and loyalty in Co. C is rapidly manifesting itself in several

A SOFT FINISH on Shirts and Collars

We claim to do the finest kind of shirt and collar work in this section and at the same time we greatly appreciate suggestions or criticisms in regard to our laundry work.

Done with the same kind of machinery the collar and shirt manufacturers use—gives the same kind of finish that is on the shirts and collars when you buy them in the store. This process raises the nap of the goods and leaves them soft and nice.

VISIT OUR MODERN PLANT

Few laundries take the people into their confidence as we do. We want everyone in this vicinity to know just how we launder. We have no secret methods that we are ashamed of. Our plant is always open for your inspection. We want you to come in and see just how quick and span we keep everything here and what a model of cleanliness this modern laundry really is.

Education.

It is, no doubt, a very laudable effort, in modern teaching, to render as much as possible of what the young are required to learn easy and interesting. But when this principle is pushed to the length of not requiring them to learn anything but what has been made easy and interesting, one of the chief objects of education is sacrificed.

BUSY DAYS DOWN AT CAMP MACARTHUR FOR COMPANY M

By Sergeant Beard.
Camp MacArthur Waco, Texas, October 23.
I have not had much spare time lately so consequently I have not written you since Saturday last. We are busy going to schools, drilling, and etc. that we sometimes feel that we do not want to take time to eat. It does feel good when night comes though and we can all feel that we have done a good day's work.

There is a school being conducted for "Bayonet Combat" and one officer and eight non-commissioned officers from "M" company are attending this school. The following are the ones attending this school: Lieutenant Ishenfeld, Sergeants M. Osgood, Grimshaw, Flanery, Beard, Corporals R. Ryan, McDonald, Osgood. We sure have some good hard workouts but we are getting in fine physical condition and are enjoying the work very much.

The following named Privates, 1st Class, of this organization were made Corporals the other day: Raymond Ryan, John McDonough, Edward Short, Gerald Osgood, Bjorne Rossette, John J. Flynn, John McHolland, Paul Larsen, Warren J. Hibbard. These men wrote on the examination the other day and were the success, the other ones out of about fifteen men that were on the test.

All construction work at Camp MacArthur will be installed at once. The finishing work at all of the sections is being rapidly completed and will not require much time. This work will be completed by November 1, according to announcement of officers in charge of the work.

By that date all of the "finishing" work will have been completed, and then the workmen will be relieved from duty unless their services are required at the aviation field or elsewhere in connection with the government work at Waco.

Mr. Matthew Hansen, constructing quartermaster, who has had charge of the government of the building of this camp, states that approximately $1,750,000 has been expended in the building of Camp MacArthur, this figure representing only the cost of material. About $750,000 has been spent for labor.

The latest order is for a heating system at the big base hospital. There will not be a general heating plant but hot air heating systems will be installed in each of the buildings that are a part of the base hospital.

An order for 150 stoves for temporary heating purposes at the hospital has been placed with Waco concerns.

All stoves are large space and is an up-to-date army hospital. There are forty-eight buildings in the Base Hospit unit and the doctors in charge

state that 1500 men can be handled

in case of emergency. Colonel F. T.

Boyer is chief surgeon of the 32nd division, and Major French is commanding officer of this particular hospital unit. The records for patients are all connected with "walking order" in order that patients will not be exposed to the weather when they have occasion to go from one building to another. There is a fine operating room and an X-ray room and a dozen examining rooms in the headquarters of the hospital and there are four

Red Cross and army nurses on duty.

There are a score of army surgeons in charge and so far the health record of the 32nd division is an enviable one.

Camp MacArthur now has its own traffic corps. They are on duty at the junction of sections A and B, on the Primm home corner, and consists of a corporal and a private from division

headquarters. Troops are employed

General Guards No. 51 which fixes the 32nd unit in camp at fifteen miles an hour and prescribes other rules and regulations. The penalty for the failure of service cars to obey the mandates of the traffic guards is disbarment from the camp.

After taps service cars are not allowed to enter Section A or C camps.

This means that the cars entering camp

by way of Section B must turn around at the Primm house corner. The buglers now sound taps at 10:30.

All of the service cars entering

Camp MacArthur have received copies of the following orders and their numbers are on file at Division Headquarters so that complaint that they are not familiar with the rules will not be accepted as an excuse in case they are barred for violating the regulations.

This order, the Primm corner is directed at the head of our Company street and every night the service cars are lined up there ready to carry the boys to town. The road is full of cars all evening long and a person has to watch his step every bit of the way. The other evening three of us Sergeant's were going to town and the horse was thrown, the buggy

and auto broken in a number of pieces

but really no damage was done to the horse.

Taking advantage of the few days which remain, the instructors in charge of the swimming lessons in the famous "Blue Hole" are rapidly

teaching a large number of soldiers

the water sport.

Frank M. Bosely, physical director of the "Y" building in Section A is in charge of the lessons this week and from 10 to 11 o'clock every morning

the troopers are splashing in the water aided by water wings learning to swim.

According to the instructors the soldiers are making rapid progress in learning how to swim and this is accredited to the dry land drills which have been given the men for the past few weeks.

Orders for new swimming details are to be in preparation at the division headquarters and it is possible that both mornings and afternoons will be devoted to teaching the men how to swim.

"Somewhere in Camp MacArthur"

there are some soldier boys who either have a wonderful imagination or else like to perpetrate jokes on their friends back home.

In a recent letter to one of the Michigan newspapers, one of the local troopers wrote up a thrilling account of a comet which set 5,000 bales of hay afire.

"The heat from the meteor was intense," the newspaper story goes. "It ignited about 5,000 bales of hay. It fell in field near the camp. The gas is described as being larger than a soldier's tent, more like a small house.

It is estimated that it will require about 1000 feet for the mass to cool.

This is some "Fairy Tale" and shows

the way some of the boys write home.

In fact they are so busy that when they do get time to write they naturally get everything all mixed up.

Very few people in the country know that there are only 106 cavalrymen

in the 32nd division. They are the members of division headquarters troop

and are the only soldiers at Camp

MacArthur entitled to wear the yellow cord of the mounted branch of the service.

When the national guardsmen from

Wisconsin and Michigan came south

there were a number of cavalry outfits from the two states, but the reorganization of the division, they were made into light artillery and the cavalry

unit was organized from an infantry company. For this purpose

106 men and three officers were taken from Company B, Sixth Wisconsin infantry of the depot brigade forces, and relieved Troop A of the First Michigan cavalry which had been acting as division headquarters troop. Troop A and Company B were among the first to arrive at Waco, coming here August.

Capt. Carlton Hanton is command of the troop. The first lieutenant, R. P. Ebert, is also division headquarters supply officer, and draws everything from scratch paper to automobiles required for division headquarters. The second lieutenant is Frank E. Dundon.

The outfit is from Superior, Wis., at the head of the Great Lakes, and the boys claim there home is more northern than any other city represented in the division. They even had pictures taken of their home town to show the people of Waco how cold it was in Superior.

The picture shows a crowd watching a world's series electric scoreboard in front of a newspaper office. Snowflakes can be seen falling, the men are all bundled up in overcoats and the women have fur.

The second northern which set Waco to shivering did not bother the headquarters troopers at all. They were reminded of the Fourth of July in Superior. Where they came from there is ice-boating on the lake in June and ski riding is always a feature of the Labor day picnic of the division.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE RED CROSS

New Officers Elected and Work of Past Year Was Reviewed.

(By Mrs. Abbie Helms.)

A splendid record of achievement was that presented by the local chapter of the Red Cross at their meeting in the city hall last evening. It was also an election of officers, and the following list was elected for the ensuing year: Chairman, Ira F. Wendorf; vice-chairman, George S. Parker; treasurer, S. M. Smith; and secretary, Miss Hattie Alden. The chairman of the nominating committee was Judge Charles Fifield. The meeting was called to order at eight o'clock. Vice-chairman George S. Parker being in the chair, the resolution of the chairman, H. S. Love, who spoke of the unprecedented amount of work, which had been thrust upon the Red Cross by the war and of the means taken to accomplish results. He spoke in a very appreciative way of the loyal and patriotic work done by members of the different committees in their several departments. He spoke of the necessity of a right good cause of public interest in the membership drive. He suggested the appointment of a special finance committee to take charge of that department, and also expressed the idea that a paid stenographer should be employed for a part of the time each day to take over the large amount of clerical work of the office. Mention was also made of the need for a sign relief of which T. S. Nohl had been chairman and its splendid total of over $22,000 which had been raised for that purpose in the county. The new committees of civilian relief and the canteen committee had been organized in response to an order that effect from headquarters, but had as yet not been called on for any special service. The postmaster and treasurer, S. M. Smith, was supplemented by a financial statement given by the secretary, Peter V. Kuhn. In this a detailed account of receipts and expenditures was given, which showed a balance of about $3,000 in the treasury, against which were outstanding accounts for sugar, etc., to the amount of five thousand six hundred dollars. It was also mentioned that Mr. Kuhn had a large amount of clerical work had been done in the office by Miss Katherine Jeffris and Miss Marjorie Monat, this being entailed by the many auxiliaries established in adjacent country towns. All the records of these chapters were handled by the local office. A vote of thanks was given by the chairman to the assistance of the secretary. Mr. Kuhn was also given a vote of thanks for the immense amount of extra labor he had given over the affairs of the Red Cross. Reports from chairmen of committees were given in detail and have been filed with the secretary for future reference. The extension committee (Mr. F. T. Richards) chairman said that their activities had been along the line of helping new branches to organize their work. In this connection, Lima Center, La Prairie and Magnolia had been given assistance. The civilian relief committee, reported by Miss Josephine Carle, said that for there had been no calls for assistance, but that they were ready for any emergency which should arise. Miss Ruth Jeffris was reported for the society when necessary. Miss Jeffris asked for information in regard to funds for that department, but that question will be handled by the incoming board. The report of the Comforts committee, Mrs. Hough, chairman, gave a detailed account of the work accomplished by this branch of workers in the community, which included twelve dozen of all completed sets, with many other garments in course of construction. She spoke of the call for five hundred complete sets which had been issued to them, and if possible to have them completed before Nov. 1st. She gave the number of comfort bags made and sent to the soldiers boys for this year, and made an appeal for more. Mrs. Hough, chairman, and children of Mrs. H. B. McNeely and children of Mrs. E. B. JUDGE HANDS LIMIT SENTENCE TO THIEF

Harry Williams is Given Ninety Days for Stealing Milk from the Home of the Chief of Police.

Harry Williams, who stole the two bottles of milk from the back porch of Chief of Police Champion's home, got his this morning when he appeared before Judge Maxfield in the municipal court on the charges of drunkenness and vagrancy.

Williams entered a plea of guilty after being read the charge and decided to drop the charge of vagrancy.

Williams is to be sentenced at 10 a. m. on Friday.

Judge Maxfield also entered a plea of guilty on the charge of drunkenness and the judge gave him a fine of $25 and costs or ninety days in the county jail.

Judge Maxfield also entered a plea of guilty on the charge of drunkenness and the judge gave him a fine of $25 and costs or ninety days in the county jail.

Williams was arrested on Friday and after he had recovered from the effects of being intoxicated, he was brought into the judge's office. As he was an aged man, the judge suspended the sentence, which was given him and allowed him the privilege of leaving the city.

After considering the case, Judge Maxfield handed him a ninety day sentence in the county jail, which is the limit.

The fact was brought out that Williams was intoxicated at the time he stole the articles from the several homes.

NEXT U. S. SENATOR MUST BE A PATRIOT

WISCONSIN MUST USE GOOD JUDGMENT IN SELECTING NEXT MAN TO REPRESENT THEM.

LOCAL MAN SUGGESTED

M. G. Jeffris Suggested As Type of Man Wisconsin Should Look to for Representation.

(By Ellis B. Usher.)

Milwaukee, Oct. 27.—All patriotic citizens of Wisconsin, which means an overwhelming majority, have been saddened and depressed by the tragic and untimely death of Senator Paul O. Husting. His passing can be added to the national recognition of this calamity. Paul Husting had not only broken the sheet anchor of Wisconsin's reputation for sound Americanism but, as President Wilson's unusual telegram to the senator's parents plainly indicated, he was one of the props of the republic, at a time when more pro tested at the ability and sincerity of Paul Husting than the simple straightforward directness of his speech, which is one of the marks of elemental greatness. In great emergencies such men become leaders because they act as they think, with all the primal force of perfect aim. Paul Husting needs no finer eulogy than that expressed by the bowed heads and moist eyes of the sons and daughters of Wisconsin men, women and children. It seems almost certain that this man of humble birth, low physical graces, and many early struggles should have risen to such eminence and reputation in so short a time. But the lesson is not unusual in this country. Freeman can be trusted in all great crises to drop all else, rally to leadership that is manly, patriotic, and brave. If it were otherwise, free government would perish from the earth. Wisconsin has been back of Paul Husting in patriotic pride and joy. As it turned to embrace and followed him as the expression of its own best self. There is no need for strain to pluck the flowers of rhetoric or play upon the heart strings to find appreciation of this unspoiled man. His memory may be left to the plain words of his last reported utterance: "Tell them, I tried to do the best I knew how." That expresses his effort and enshrines his achievement.

The pressing duty of the emergency is such a thrust upon Wisconsin to find a man for senator. This is the concern of all patriotic citizens. In time of war we must, first of all, be warriors, whether or not we are in the actual fighting lines. There is urgent necessity for Wisconsin to realize that the eyes of the nation are upon her. Her action will discredit that can not be afforded or it may bring perils such as will bring a wicked stain that has been placed upon the state's escutcheon by her public servants in Washington and Madison. This is not said in bitterness, but in sadness, regret and humiliation. It is said at every patriotic heartthrob in this state, in breath void of politics. "We should provide what deserve us, at this critical moment, of our one national representative." This expresses the feeling. It is pervasive and deep. It will be dangerous to political manipulators or pro-German marplots. The test is not upon the people themselves. They have lost their great patriotic bond. It is necessary to demonstrate that they deserved to have him. Paul Husting should have a successor worthy to fill his vacant place. The first test should be patriotism. The next ability. We want no patrician of the cotton-tail variety, the sort that makes a few jumps in the open, then "freezes" beneath a bush. We want a man. We will find such a candidate, for there are many in Wisconsin who are tried and still stand erect, and who need no interpreter, nor a dog with keen scent to find out where they have been or where they are. I can think of two such men. One is Malcolm G. Jeffris, of Janesville; the other, Patrick H. Martin of Green Bay. They are opposites in politics. Both are Americans and foursquare to all the winds of heaven. They have had to qualify their utterances, and double on his trail since this war began. Both are men of patriotism and neither is afraid. I am not nominating either for United States senator, to succeed Paul Husting. I am using both to illustrate the only type of man who can be elected, if the issue is not forged and put to the primary political contest. This must not be. If the telegrams in the primary by multiplying candidates, force them to understand, in advance, that the people will call and back a man whose only interest is to serve his country, and beat Germany in this war.

The sale of the second three billion liberty loan will be accomplished, with a margin to spare, when this is read. It has been pressed home little harder than the first. The next, for there will be others, will be pressed with still more patriotic urgency. This country is fading fast. The time is near at hand when talk doubtful in purpose, will be represented, bitterly, and it will rattle for generations in the memories of good citizens. The time is near when our own boys are certain to pay their part of the great price that liberty has always and must always cost. We will then all know the weight of personal sacrifice. Such sacrifice, from the crooked toars and unfeeling sympathy from treason in the rear. It is, too, important to realize before we go farther, that we who buy our little bond are making no sacrifice whatever. The sacrifice of life cannot be balanced by money. To buy a bond is the least that one can do who cannot fight in the trenches, but it involves a sacrifice. It is not a gift. It is an investment at 3.5 percent, in the safest security in the world. If everyone could take care of his money and invest it at three percent, there would be no poverty. The average earnings of the steadily mounting Astor estate in New York, have never been more than three percent. We, as a nation, are selling and lending to the world. We have no peril ahead of us, when peace comes, so great are the riches that will be heaped upon us. These government loans will then be a stabilizer. But don't, Mr. Citizen, swell up with the idea that as an investor in the bonds of this government you are doing a great deed for others. You are merely adding to the security of your own note of hand. You are the person interested. There is no impersonal thing in this country called "the government," bossed by a Kaiser. Men and women of America constitute this segment. Men like our man of the people, Paul Husting, are "the government" of this republic. When they buy their own notes and draw interest on them, they are only protecting their own individual credit. The United States will shake off some of the German propaganda of our colleges and schools, and retrace their steps to this truly American doctrine, we will do our duty, as Americans, to America, and will hasten the dawn of true freedom throughout the world.

One of the stirring events of the week was a meeting on Sunday evening of fully 8,000 people to hear our former ambassador to Germany, James W. Gerard. It was an effective speech and it was made especially impressive next morning to those who attended when they learned that poor Paul Husting, who had expected to be present, was dying while the meeting was in progress. The audience rose with one mighty movement at the utterance of President Wilson's name and filled the great room with cheers. Again and again, it responded in similar manner to the speaker's denunciation of Germany. It was a memorable meeting and many prominent citizens of German blood attended.

Resume of Moving Picture Programs Of The Week

By Mrs. Abbie Helms.

A splendid presentation of "The Tales of Two Cities" was given at the Apollo on Monday, for the benefit of a church circle. William Farnum surprised himself in the dual part of a French count and Sydney Carton, and the other characters were equally well taken. The mob scenes of the time of the revolution at Paris were given with wonderful effect, and the garden scenes of the粘贴 were most beautiful. The dual role of Farnum was accomplished by a double exposure of the film. On Tuesday Theda Bara was seen in "Her Greatest Love," which gives her an opportunity to exercise her emotional capabilities in a wholesome part. In this play she is a wronged wife, forced into a loveless marriage by an ambitious man.

Richard Bennett has refused the offer of the government to visit France in behalf of "Damaged Goods," in which he played a leading role, both on the legitimate stage and the screen. Bennett was requested to visit France and lecture on the dangers of carnal sin. He refused, basing his "plan" on it as a special release.

Another popular author to seek the films is Herman Whitaker, the California novelist, remembered for his stories of the Canadian northwest and the heart of Mexico. Whitaker's "The Planter" has just been produced by the Mutual Film Corporation as a seven reel vehicle for the opposition of Tyrone Power. Other Whitaker novels will be screened later. "The Planter" is listed as a special release.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been very worried for the last three months over my two daughters and at last have come to you for advice. These girls are very wayward and it is all I can do to control them. Their father is much stronger than I and he can do almost anything with them but I cannot convince him to take them in hand. Perhaps if he sees that you say so he would do it.

The girls are seventeen and nineteen years old and they both work in the shop near town. Their work is not very hard and they never get tired have boys come to see them and stay till eleven o'clock nearly every night and it makes them tired and cross.

(1) Do you think they are old enough to be having company?

(2) Is it proper for me to stay in the room with them when these boys come?

(3) Should I say anything when the boys come and stay too late? I don't see how they do it either when they have to work themselves.

(4) The other evening they took my daughters to a picture show. I saw them when they came home and they had their arms around the girl's waists and I don't know whether to say anything to them or not; do you think I should have?

(5) Don't you think it would be all right to talk to the girls seriously about the way they carry on? DESPERATE MOTHER.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

(1) The girls are old enough to have company once in a while—the one seventeen is hardly old enough, but it would be rather hard to let her sister have company and not her since they are always together. They should not be allowed to have company more than twice a week and not even that if it seems to make them cross and tired mornings.

(2) It is all right for you to be in the room part of the time, but it is not necessary to stay in the room all the time. You might be there when they come and after a few minutes leave, making some excuse about having some work to do or letters to write, or something of that sort.

(3) Yes, you ought to tell the girls to say that they are not allowed to be up after ten o'clock, and if the girls don't succeed in making the boys go home early you should say something to the boys yourself.

(4) Tell the girls not to allow such familiarity.

(5) Yes, it is what a father and mother ought always to do. But you must do it in a way that will not make them think you are doing it to be mean to them but for their own good.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is it proper to ask a girl for her picture?

(2) Is it proper for a boy to give the girl one of his pictures? PUEBLA, MEXICO.

(3) It is best for girls and boys not to exchange pictures, because it may cause unpleasant relations later.

(4) I would advise him not to.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Would it be proper to invite a young lady to a high school dance? I met her some time ago, and we nod to each other when we meet, but I have never been anywhere with her and don't know her well. SENIOR.

Yes, it would be all right to ask her.

SIDE TALKS

—BY— RUTH CAMERON

Should The Worm Turn? ably. "Now don't get cross with me but think it over. Why are you irritable when you love her so much? For just one reason. Because she lets you be and because it's human nature to impose on any one who permits it."

"I don't see what that has to do with it," began the wife.

"Everything," said the very frank friend. "You have your mother on the run, so to speak. And between you and your husband the relation is reversed. He has you on the run. If you could make him realize that you just won't be unfriendly blamed him. If your mother took a firm stand against your being irritable to her, wouldn't you probably try to control yourself as you do with other people when you feel cross?"

Can There Be Too Much Meekness? The conversation went on for some time but was at a standstill, and the result was that I am afraid I ought to tear this up. For I am guilty of setting myself against one of the prime Christian doctrines. Doubtless as I grow older I shall understand things better, but just now it does seem to me that a little firmness of character sometimes in the world to the sum of happiness in the world by giving one's brother more incentive to be just (and aren't we the brother's keepers) than a too flabby meekness.

"Do you love your mother?" asked her friend.

The wife stood crying to consider this unexpected encounter and to say that of course she did.

"Yes, Sir. Her Mother Up."

"Yet I've often heard you snap her up," pursued the friend inexorably.

Letters to Two Women

By ZOE Beckley

A postscript from May, bride, to Kate, business girl.

WILLIAMS, Same Date. It's after dinner, Kits, dearie, and I've been so bothered by this stupid letter I wrote you, I think I'm going to do it again in lighter vein.

For the first time since our marriage I cooked a whole meal! Considering how I hate to cook, it wasn't so bad. We've been taking nearly all meals with the folks, and they have a nice girl—not a servant at all, you know; they don't leave them out here. I've cooked a few odds and ends, mostly odds with the wife, who finished, but took Curtis and I impudently to cook one! Oh, Kate! Chickens, to me, were things you got at a butcher's, and all you had to do was to put them in a pan in the oven. It never occurred to me that a chicken's natural state is with feathers on the outside and other less pleasant things within. Or that it is alive and has to be beheaded, etc., before one could prepare it for the table.

Oh, Kate! I looked at the chicken in the yard, and slowly it dawned on me that I would have to pursue one of those pretty things just—and—

Well, I just couldn't. And didn't. Instead I ran over to the in-laws' house and told them my difficulty. And though she did laugh, and have old pranks which sometimes works in their case, I did see it.

But she didn't laugh, Kitte. She was very busy, and somehow got the impression that she thought me a little silly not to know about the chicken. Mother-in-law Bond wiped her hands, put on her sunbonnet and hurried out into the yard. I heard an awful crashing, then a hard sound of wood, and my husband's mother came in carrying a chicken by the feet, with a piece of newspaper wrapped round the rest of the body.

I thought I should have a convolution taking it home. And another when I realized what I had to do with it before it could be cooked. It MAY.

And, rolling up his trousers, and tying his apron on the side, he drew from a secret closet a crate imprisoning two coffee hounds, a shag terrier and a bologna, and turned to his sausages.

Meanwhile, unnoticed by him, a yellow, leering face peered in through the window.

At eight minutes past four the sausage machine stuck. Joel Mizzen examined it closely behind, because it had never done it before. He oiled the subcine cog, the wood brace and the bark plates. But to no avail—the usually docile sausage machine refused.

At that moment the face left the

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Naylor.

I hold that a warm bath is beneficial after brisk exercise, and that a cold plunge may even prove fatal after such exertion. My friend disputes this. Will you kindly inform us who is right? (A. J. and Pete.)

ANSWER.—Well, we dislike to be mean about it, but the fact is that a cold plunge is generally safer after brisk exercise, for if we are to be spare away back vender in the old swimmin' hole, into which we never hesitated to plunge, and without any ceremony, immediately after a two mile run.

If one enjoys cold plunges or showers, feel 'warm' and 'good' afterwards, they are all right.

For our part, we'll take ours tñd.

We prefer to let the cool air stimulate our vasomotor nerves.

The Safety of Removing Moles.

Have a hanging mole on neck under chin. Would it be dangerous to have it removed? Some cancerous affection in family. Is rheumatism a blood disease when a person suffers in tendons in the arms? (M. J. D.)

ANSWER.—It wouldn't be dangerous to have it removed with a surgeon's scalpel. The fact that some one in family has had a cancer is immaterial. Have the mole removed for comfort's sake. The chance of such condition assuming a cancerous character in later life is the same for any one, irrespective of family history. Rheumatism isn't a disease at all, but a vague way folks have of describing pain anywhere excepting the head. It covers all sorts of ailments, and therefore the sufferer needs a doctor's examination.

BIG ARMY AND NAVY BAZAAR IN NEW YORK

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS

New York, Oct. 27.—The United States Army and Navy Bazaar, the greatest of its kind ever inaugurated in the United States, will be formally opened at the Grand Central Palace to-night.

Notables from all corners of the earth, the foremost exponents of every human art, science, occultism, religion, race and judiciary, will be present at the bazaar's inception.

Microbes certainly prevent the multiplication of other microbes (those which cause putrefactive decomposition in the intestines), but are incapable of destroying them.

Moreover raw milk often contains fungi, and almost always traces of fecal matter from the cow. This sometimes happens from the microscopic microbe introduced from the cow's udder, and remains alive notwithstanding the acid coagulation of the milk.

Raw milk contains a large assortment of microbes, and frequently some of these are harmful.

Pasteurizing milk at a temperature of about 140 degrees Fahrenheit is not sufficient to kill the bacilli of the bovine tuberculosis and the spores of the tubercular bacilli. We have, therefore, to fall back on a middle course, and be content with boiling milk for several minutes.

Boiling milk five minutes does not destroy all the bacteria in it, for some are spore forms which resist boiling.

As is understandable to absorb so much fatty matter, it is necessary to prepare curdled milk for regular use from skinned milk. After the (skinned) milk has been boiled (five minutes) and rapidly cooled (to about body heat) pure cultures of the lactic microbes (Bulgarian bacilli) are sown in it, in sufficient quantities to prevent the germination of spores already in the milk, not destroyed in the process of boiling. The fermentation lasts a number of hours, varying according to temperature, and finally produces a sour curdled milk, pleasant to the taste and active in preventing intestinal putrefaction. This milk taken daily in quantities of from 300 to 500 cubic centimeters (up to a pint), controls the action of the intestine, and stimulates the kidneys favorably. It can therefore be recommended in many cases of disorder of the intestines, and therefore the sufferer needs a doctor's examination.

the name bazaar implies. It will be complete with mosaics. A number of these will be novel in the extreme—something to which the public has never before been introduced, and the tired business man will be glad to go to a more "affair." He will see loads of beautiful women, wonderful gowns, monster shows with the foremost theatrical and operatic stars of the continent, entertaining and "movie fans" will be able to see many of their favorite screen stars.

Participating in the opening will be numerous war relief charities of the nation, and the proceeds taken in at the various booths from the sale of goods or for unique entertainment will be divided as follows: Fifty per cent to the participating organizations and 50 per cent to the Army and Navy Field Comfort Committee.

To Stop Hair Loss and Rid Your Scalp of Dandruff, Use

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Do you have dandruff? Does your hair fall out? Is it getting thinner and the parting more pronounced every day?

If so, we advise you to get busy right away and before it is too late.

We are not trying to scare you. We are simply telling you the truth. If you would ward off impending baldness, you must check that hair loss and rid your scalp of dandruff.

Start right and start now with the right remedy and stick to it—Newbro's Herpicide.

Use Herpicide daily for a while, then three times a week will be sufficient. Watch the change which takes place in the hair. Applications may be obtained at the better barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

J. P. BAKER, Special Agent.

The scalp is clean and free from dandruff. The hair looks strong and healthy and does not fall out.

There is vigor and snap where before the hair was dead, dull and brittle. The itching which is so annoying stops and you enjoy a feeling of coolness and cleanliness hitherto unknown.

Any dealer will sell you Newbro's Herpicide either in 50 cent or $1.00 size. It is guaranteed by The Herpicide Co.

The first application will convince you that Newbro's Herpicide is the very thing for the hair. Its odor is delightful.

Use Herpicide daily for a while, then three times a week will be sufficient. Watch the change which takes place in the hair and condition of your hair and scalp.

The High Cost of Living

The high cost of living is not always on account of high prices but in many cases is caused by buying inferior merchandise which must be replaced in a short time. This is especially true in buying Furniture. We believe we can convince you in this matter if you will come to our store and give us the opportunity to explain. Try it.

FRANK D. KIMBALL

ENTIRE NATION WILL PRAY FOR J. S. WARAIMS SUNDAY

Milwaukee, Oct. 27.—The entire nation will pray for speedy realization of America's war aims tomorrow. At the same time memorial services will be held everywhere for the naval men of America, first killed in the world war started. President Wilson and Secretary of the Navy Daniels will lead the nation in prayer for the men who have died and those who are prepared to fight to the death in the cause of democracy.

Mrs. McKinley is conducting her services at Beloit this week under the auspices of the Beloit News and immediately following, will come to Janesville to give the ladies of this city the benefit of her week's demonstration and visit.

Economics.

Superintendent G. E. Christie, head of the food conservation movement of Indiana, and superintendent of the Department of Agriculture of Purdue University made the following statement when he heard of Mrs. McKinley's war aims:

"We certainly welcome Mrs. McKinley. Her lectures are a contribution to the food conservation movement that are without price. I am certainly glad to give my encouragement and assistance to any newspaper or any organization that will do such a good work as arranging for this series of lectures on food conservation."

Mrs. McKinley is conducting her services at Beloit this week under the auspices of the Beloit News and immediately following, will come to Janesville to give the ladies of this city the benefit of her week's demonstration and visit.

Entertainment.

Use fish once a week in the place of meat.

Use eggs or beans once a week in the place of meat.

Use poultry on one day.

Serve beef two days.

Use pork and mutton on the other two.

Don't use any veal or lamb.

Wheat.

Wherever bread is made, use a blend of wheat with some other grain.

When bread is bought, buy "Liberty bread" part of the time and some rye.

Don't make or buy much cake; make oatmeal cookies.

Try having a dish of fruit and nuts handy instead of candy.

Sugar.

Don't frost a cake more than once a week.

Make a plain cake in two layers with a filling of custard, raisins, apple sauce or jelly.

Use fresh, uncooked fruit as much as possible.

Fats.

Buy enough butter or good substitutes so that you can have one pound of pound a day: this is to be served on the table. Any that is left can be used on vegetables. A small amount of cheaper fat can be purchased to use in cooking with the fats that are saved from meats.

Cut down the amount of fried food; everybody will be better off.

Don't serve more than once a week.

Use more fresh fruits, stewed fruits, ice creams, and custards.

Serve honey or jam or peanut butter occasionally and leave butter on the table.

Oscar Sitt of the county Council of Defense will deliver a food conservation address at Sherman Boulevard Congregational Church on Conserving Sunday.

PRESIDENT WEEGHMAN HAS MORE NEW IDEAS

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE
New York, Oct. 27.—If the baseball world doesn't watch out, this fellow Chetley Weeghman out in Chicago is going to take their old game all to pieces and reassemble it according to his own ideas.

Weeghman, who runs the Chicago club of the National League, started out a year ago to put some new ideas into the grand old pastime. His ideas went shooting off on another world, so he adopted them in his training plans. This year, he declared today, he is going right on through with them.

Weeghman has the idea that hitters can be made. In spite of the oft-repeated assertion, proved many times according to present methods, that real hitters are just simply able to crack 'em and the boys who don't hit 'em can't be made to, he is going to the limit with his new idea.

Just about a year ago Weeghman conceived the idea of taking a crack golf in California with him and sending him onto the boys with the promise of showing them a golf swing in their batting. A follow-through blow, such as is used in golfing, Weeghman contended, could be put to good advantage on a baseball club.

Weeghman handed out the idea in seriousness and engaged Chick Evans to make the trip to California to teach the boys something about hitting. However, so much fun was made of the idea and things go so bad about the time the Cubs beat it for the Pacific coast that Weeghman abandoned the idea. This year, he declares, he is going through with it, but he has in view a professional golfer as instructor for his men. Fred Mitchell, he says, is agreeable to the experiment.

Miller, of the Club Wootman and several others high-class fielders but poor hitters, admirable material to turn over to the teacher. It may be that Weeghman will come back with a school of ball players who will begin knocking them far and wide with such gusto that the golf swing will become a common term.

And, having relieved himself of the political, Weeghman is off again, though with another bunch. He is going to coach his runners at third base to start for home after a sacrifice fly from a sprinter's crouch. He contends that many runs are lost through a player's insistence on watching the ball as it approaches an outfielder. The start, he says could be made at a sound from the coacher at third.

BAKER'S FISHING HOLE IS NOW A U. S. PROVING GROUND

INCLINE, NOVA SCOTIA
Washington, Oct. 27.—Because Secretary of War Baker used to fish in a creek called Long Branch in Maryland, the new government proving ground is to be called Long Branch proving ground.

It is located at Gunpowder Neck, which is not regarded as a suitable name. Aberdeen, the name of the nearest village, was rejected. Baker then resolved that it, a bay he fished while a non-com in Long Branch in the immediate vicinity. "That's the name," Baker said.

It doesn't seem long since Charley "Red" Dooin was one of big league baseball's most popular figures and one of its best players as well, but time passes on and now Dooin is unable to hold a fair job in semi-pro baseball. He was released recently by a semi-pro team playing around Philadelphia for its inability to pay him. In 1917 Charley hit .328 for the Phillips but his hitting thereafter was never any too heavy though he was one of the best backstops in fast company. If worse comes to worst "Red" can always earn a living singing as he has the easiest voice to listen to of any ball player you could mention and made a fair hit in vaudeville some seasons ago.

FISKE RETIREMENT PUZZLES NAVAL MEN

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Washington, Oct. 27.—The inaction during the present emergency of Rear-Admiral Charles Bradley A. Fiske, United States Navy, retired, is the cause of much unfavorable talk in naval circles. Admiral Fiske, being conceded one of the greatest naval gunnery experts in the world and a man to whom much of the credit for the present great American navy is given, officials in active service, given of which do not agree with Fiske's methods, are hoping that he will be recalled to active duty.

Admiral Fiske was retired June 13, 1916, at the age of sixty-two years. On the twenty-ninth of the following August an act was passed placing the retirement age at sixty-four, therefore he is still within the present age for active service, and officers his senior who were retired at the increased age might have been recalled to active service among whom are Rear-Admirals Ross, Osterhaus, Baden-Nicholson, Ingersoll and Dillingham, and Commodores Nelson, Key and Orchard. Rear-Admiral Winslow, junior to Fiske, was also recalled from retirement.

Admiral Fiske was appointed to the naval academy from Ohio in 1870 at the age of sixteen and the ensuing forty-six years of service rendered him one of the ablest officers of the American navy. His patients and perfection of other patients have not only been adopted by the United States navy, but by the navies of every country in the world, and each has made for efficiency and this efficiency was in the nature of gunfire perfection.

He is the inventor of the stinger, a device which enables the fleet commander to keep his ships in battle formation, denoting the distance apart of each vessel, an absolutely essential requisite in naval warfare. He perfected a range-finding device which is in universal use and also a telescope sight for the big guns of the battleships. To him also is given the credit for the perfection of the device which enables torpedoes to be launched from air-crafts.

His entire official life has been spent in the plan of placing the United States navy in a position to annihilate its foe, now, when not only the United States, but practically the entire world has an enemy which requires the brains and ingenuity of the greatest scientist as well as practical fighter to crush, the continued retirement of Admiral Fiske cannot be understood.

LARGE MOVEMENT OF COAL NOW REPORTED

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—Fuel Administrator Garfield and his staff are taking care of the great northwest on the coast proposition.

Reports from Superior and Michigan lake ports today indicate a larger movement of coal for the summer than has been witnessed in many years.

Most of it is coming from Lake Erie ports.

The bulk of shipments is said to be going to the head of the Lakes although thousands of tons are being handled daily in Milwaukee, Mani-

to-w, Sheboygan and upper bay cities, and the coal is being loaded into the lake freighters.

An officer of a large steamship company today estimated forty steamers are either loading or unloading tonight at the coal port of Milwaukee.

Most of the coal is being loaded into

the lake freighters.

Reports also indicate that the coal

is being loaded into the lake freighters

at the coal port of Milwaukee.
